

Falcon class

19th November 2020

This week, we have been looking at the work of William Morris- a designer, craftsman and poet, whose designs for furniture, fabric and wallpaper were influential in the Arts and Crafts movement in England and during the Victorian period. Have a look at some of our designs below.

Some of the children began Bikeability this week. This instructors spoke positively about how the children listened and participated- something we pride ourselves on.

In topic, we have been learning more about Victorian workhouses, the coalmines and how different schools were compared to now.
