

Fox Class

13th November 2020

Well done for another great week. We have been enjoying reading more of our class text, and have been writing a fantastic letter from the main character. We've learned how to use coordinating conjunctions to join sentences, and have been using prepositions to describe where an object is.

In science this week we had great fun testing the properties of some different rocks. We learned that marble is very hard, durable and impermeable, while chalk is soft, not durable and impermeable. We loved taking part in yoga in PE this week, and have begun learning some Christmas songs!
